Hunters Urged To Exercise Extreme Care

With Alabama's hunting season only about half over, five fatal accidents have been reported to the Department of Conservation. In addition, there have been several non-fatal hunting mishaps reported.

Conservation Director

About noon on Oct. 26, a 14-year-old Opelika youth was killed by a blast from his 12-gauge shotgun. The victim was riding on a horse and reportedly was crossing a fence. He was pulling his gun, barrel first, through the fence when the weapon discharged and he was struck in the abdomen by a full charge of No. 8 shot.

An eight-year-old Flomaton boy died Nov. 1 when he was struck by a charge from a 20-gauge shotgun. The victim was riding on a pickup truck in the woods with his gun. The weapon slipped and discharged and the victim was struck in the chest, head and jaw.

In the early morning of Nov. 11, a 36-year-old Estesville, Ga., resident was killed while hunting squirrels. He was struck in the jaw and throat by an accidental discharge of his companion's 12-gauge shotgun.

Two hunting deaths occurred on the afternoon of Nov. 16 in widely separated locations. A 46-year-old retired army sergeant of Anniston died as he was apparently trying to kill a squirrel with the butt of his 12-gauge shotgun. The weapon discharged and the victim was struck in the abdomen.

On the same day, a 14-year-old Bay Minette boy died when he thought he was mistaken for a deer by his companion at a distance of about 40 yards in the woods. The victim was struck in the head and neck by a bullet from a 12-gauge gun.

Director Graham pointed out that hunting is wholesome recreation for people. "Safe handling of firearms can prevent hunting accidents and avoid turning a pleasure trip into a tragedy."

Stadium Committee Is Completing Plans

Stadium Chairman, Leroy Miller, stated this week that his committee is ready to let the community know the construction of the new stadium. This can only be done after all persons signing commitments have gone to the bank and completed their contracts.

Miller said that the committee had not bothered the football supporters much through the holidays but the time has now arrived when the money must be collected. Much money is available. It is impossible to let a contract without having the money.

He encouraged those who have not signed their bank notes to do it this week for sure, Miller also mentioned that there are still unused and reserved seats left if anyone is interested.
